REMOVED TO NASHVILLE

Accused of Shooting Young
Student at Cumberland
University

(By the Associated Press)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 21.—Mrs. Pearl Baskin is held here today charged with the slaying of Paul Patterson, 21-year-old law student at Cumberland University at Lebanon, Tenn., who died yesterday from a pistol wound inflicted at the woman's home Wednesday night.

Mrs. Baskin was brought here last night for safe keeping and will be held to await further action following the arrival of the young man's father who will reach Nashville tonight.

Students of Cumberland, aroused over the killing, had made no move toward disorder today. Mrs. Baskin told officers that she warned him to stay away from her home.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 21.—Maintaining her composure and discussing matters readily, Mrs. Pearl Baskin of Lebanon, charged with fatally shooting Paul Patterson, 21, Cumberland university law student of Springfield, Missouri, in Lebanon Wednesday night, met all questions regarding the tragedy from newspaper men here this morning with the counter-question: "I am not on the witness stand, am I?"

"How long have you known Patterson?" Mrs. Baskin was asked.

"Who said I knew him at all?" she replied.

"Why did you shoot him?"

"I am not on the witness stand, am I?"

Further questioning elicited little or no information from the woman.

Mrs. Baskin is tall and slender with a mass of black hair and is pleasing in appearance. She is apparently about 35 years of age.

Mrs. Baskin was brought here last night by Wilson county authorities and placed in the Davidson county jail charged with murder.

Mrs. Baskin came into public notice more than a year ago in connection with the death of an unknown woman, who was killed just outside the city limits of Nashville on a highway. The body was at first identified as that of Mrs. Baskin, but this was later proved incorrect.

Young Patterson was the son of Foscoe C. Patterson, prominent Springfield, Missouri, lawyer, and former congressman. The elder Patterson with his wife arrived here last night.

SOONERS ON WAY TO FIGHT WASHINGTON U. TEAM

(By the Associated Press)

NORMAN, Nov. 21.—Hopeful of another Missouri valley conference game with the only one they have gained this year, but not minimizing the strength of the Washington university team, the University of Oklahoma Sooners are on their way to St. Louis where tomorrow they will meet the wearers of the Myrtle and Maroon. Snowed under by both Missouri and Kansas, teams which defeated Oklahoma 10-0 and 20-0, Washington is regarded as inferior to Oklahoma, but the disastrous season experienced by the Sooners may rob them of the fight necessary to overcome the Pikers on their home grounds.

CITY AUDIT LASTS THROUGH FOUR MONTHS TODAY

The city audit ended four months of its continuance today without prospect of completion by Saturday as formerly announced.

The audit started July 21 and has continued without interruption through July, August, September, October and thus far in November. Complexities in the water department caused the latest delay in the report on the audit, it was stated officially.

Kimmard Suit Still In Hands of Jurors; Fail to Get Verdict

The suit for $35,000, in which Mrs. Leda Kimmard seeks financial balm for the death of her husband, who was alleged to have been killed with three other men when an automobile was demolished by a Frisco passenger train near Chandler in May, 1923, was still in the hands of the jury at 1:30 this afternoon.

The suit, which had been argued before District Judge J. W. Bolen for more than a day was handed to the jury at 4 o'clock this afternoon. They were reported deadlocked on the case early this afternoon. No other matters were brought before Judge Bolen after the Kimmard case was given to the jury.

New York Cotton Market
Suspends Trading for Government Report

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The cotton crop was estimated today at 12,992,000 equivalent 500-pound bales by the department of agriculture, as compared with a crop of 12,816,000 forecast a fortnight ago. Last years crop was 10,339,671 bales.

Of the total crop 11,147,524 running bales counting round bales, as half bales had been ginned prior to November 14, compared with 8,369,498 for 1923 and 8,699,978 for 1922 to that date the census bureau announced.

The estimate of the crop was made on the basis of figures available from crop reports as of November 14, covering conditions, probable yield, percentage of acreage abandoned and percentage of the crop picked and actually ginned to November 14.

The preliminary estimate of production in Oklahoma was 1,390,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Suspension of trading on New York cotton markets for 20 minutes today while the government report on the cotton crop was being received successfully averted confusion in trading which heretofore had followed publication of these figures.

A moderate and orderly advance of 9 to 20 points in prices which took place after trading was resumed at 11:15 contrasted with the erratic fluctuations which previously followed the government crop forecasts throughout the summer.

Officers Continue Probe of Death of Woman in Northland

(By the Associated Press)

WAP. ROAD, Minn., Nov. 21.—Lake of the Woods county authorities reopened their investigation into the death of Mrs. Dean Wheeler of Clearwater, Kan., whose body was found in a cabin in the northwest angle country of Minnesota November 13, with a butcher knife in her side.

A coroners jury empaneled at the cabin after county authorities had made 160-mile trip afoot to the place found that Mrs. Wheeler died as a result of accidentally falling on the knife while alone in the cabin. Last night however an undertaker who embalmed the body for shipment to Kansas for burial, discovered a two-inch scar in the woman's head. He reported the matter to officers and they decided to reopen the inquest to determine if Mrs. Wheeler was the victim of foul play.

'MA' LANDSLIDE NOT SUFFRAGE VICTORY

Woman Leader Declares "Ma"
Is "Horrible Example"
Of Suffrage

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—The election of "Ma" Ferguson as governor of Texas resulted from "blind devotion to party," Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, suffrage leader said in an address before the Illinois Women's Voters league last night.

Mrs. Catt said the people of Texas did not want Mrs. Ferguson because they thought her election meant the election of "Pa" Ferguson, former governor.

"However, they voted for her because they did not want to vote for a Klan candidate in the Democratic primary and would not vote for a Republican in the final election."

Mrs. Catt said the same "fanatical devotion" to the party also prevails in Republican New England.

Mrs. Catt quoted from a speech which she said Former Governor Ferguson, husband of "Ma", made at the Democratic National convention in 1916.

"I am opposed to giving women the vote," she said Ferguson declared. "God himself commanded woman to remain within the home and be obedient to her husband. I shall stay with God."

"So Pa now has invited Ma out of the house where God put her," said Mrs. Catt. "The issue was between the Democratic wets and the Republican Ku Klux Klansmen."

OKLAHOMA AGGIES READY TO BATTLE RAZORBACKS

(By the Associated Press)

STILLWATER, Nov. 21.—On "edge" for their last appearance this year before a home crowd, the Oklahoma A. and M. college Aggies await the whistle tomorrow which send them against the University of Arkansas team, rival for honors in the Southwestern conference.

Although several of the Aggies were badly battered up in the terrific encounter with Creighton university at Omaha last Saturday, virtually all the members of the squad have rounded into fine shape for tomorrow's battle. The game will be the last of the season on the Stillwater gridiron as the team ends its season Thanksgiving at Dallas facing the Southern Methodist university eleven.

Dope favors the Razorbacks but the fighting spirit of the Aggies which carried them into a deadlock with the fast traveling Creighton team is expected to enable them to down the visitors from Fayetteville. Upon Guy Lookabaugh, Olympic team wrestler, and star of this season's team rests the burden of leading the attack. Lookabaugh's smashing tactics in the Oklahoma and Creighton games stamp him as one of the best backs in the Southwest, officials say.

Arkansas tied S. M. U. 14-14 and Baylor 7-7, while S. M. U. defeated Texas Christian University, a team which nosed out the Aggies.

HALF MILLION IN BONDS FOUND IN YOUNGSTOWN PARK

(By the Associated Press)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 21.—Bonds and stocks valued at half a million dollars said to have been stolen from Bentley's Bank at Springfield, Penn., were found in a city park here and have been recovered by postal authorities, it was announced here today by Postmaster Edward Westwood and Postal Inspector Harry Tavinor.

That the men who found the money, all foreigners, were not fully aware of the value of the discovery was indicated by the foreman, who worked in the steel mill said that he found the man wearing two $1,000 bonds for an apron.

GOVERNMENT COMPLETES CASE IN TRIAL OF WILLIAM FAHY

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—The government completed its testimony and rested its case shortly after noon today in the trial of William Fahy, former post office inspector, James Murray and Walter McComb, charged with conspiracy in connection with the $2,000,000 mail train robbery at Rondout, Illinois, June 12 last.

Helpmate of Harding Joins Him in Death at Marion

The life story of Florence Kling Harding, like an epic of sturdy American womanhood, was a chronicle of continual struggle against great odds, and of continual accomplishments.

From the day she first faced the world in a pioneer home in the middle west, until, broken in health she undertook the heavy responsibilities of the White House, she encountered hardships before which a less courageous spirit would have weakened into drab mediocrity.

Despite these trials she not only kept her courage and her vigorous individuality, but she retained as well a depth of human understanding and a confidence in herself and those about her that endeared her to many thousands. After she became First Lady of the Land, as always in the years preceding, the helpless and the unfortunate, received the first and fullest measure of her devotion. Children of every class had her unfailing attention. Wounded veterans of the World War owed her many a debt for hours gladdened by her visit to their hospitals or by flowers sent by her personal order from the White House conservatories. Her unusual outpouring of sympathy extended to animals, many of whom she befriended and protected.

In her thoughtfulness for the interests of others and in her loyalty to her friends, she was outspoken to a degree that won for her recognition as one of the most vigorous-minded women who ever presided over the household of a president.

On the night of election day in 1920 she announced her determination to send away the policemen stationed at the White House gates since the United States entered the war—a purpose which was fulfilled on the very day Mr. Harding took office. Before he even had looked around his new offices he issued an order throwing the gates wide open, and hundreds trooped in across the lawn and peeped in at the windows while the new First Lady of the Land was presiding at her first White House function—an informal luncheon for old friends and neighbors from Marion, Ohio.

Admired at White House.

During the whole time she was mistress of the executive mansion, Mrs. Harding combined with her social duties an unwavering allegiance to her convictions, and displayed in doing so a degree of tact which won her universal esteem. The social usages so long a part of official Washington life were preserved by her to the letter but without ostentation. And at the same time she found opportunity to show in many ways that she had lost none of her interest for the class of home folks from which she had come.

"Say that we are just folks," she told newspapermen when they asked her for a message to the people at the time of Mr. Harding's inauguration. "We are just folks, but when I enter the White House I propose to accept all of its social

BATTLE SCENES CHANGE FOR ADA GRID TEAMS

The battle scenes for Ada's two football teams had switched today and East Central Tigers were preparing this afternoon to rope the Rangers of Northwest Teachers of Alva into tow across the chalk marks, while Ada's high school team continued its season to Pauls Valley.

The Alva aggregation arrived last night and showed up as a husky bunch when they lined up the street this morning.

Milam is prepared to offer grid fans the feature battle of the season this afternoon. Alva being considered an evenly matched team, fans are looking forward to the most exciting game of the college season here this afternoon.

Despite the fact that a number of his players who started off the season will be out of the line-up in today's game, Milam expects to send a winning team on the field at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The high school game at Pauls Valley is expected to be an easy victory for the Ada team, owing to the fact that the Pauls Valley aggregation has showed little strength thus far this season. The high school team will meet Atoka here Thursday in the Turkey Day classic.

The police department took the responsibility for only one arrest today, that being one found in an intoxicated condition. "Business has been rather dull this month," quotes Mayor Somer Jones.

Mailed Appeals to Delinquent Payers Of Taxes Effective

The personal touch is proving effective for payers of delinquent personal taxes, a report from the sheriff's office indicated today.

Since the department sent out letters to 2000 delinquent taxpayers in the county, there has been a steady stream of truants into the sheriff's office with the funds needed to erase their names from the sheriff's list.

Service of tax warrants by the sheriff deputies will be started on November 25 and those who have not responded to the mail appeal will suffer a visit from the department.

VETERAN BUREAU GETS NEW HOME

Sub-Division Office to Be Raised to Regional Office

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 20.—Not only is the office of the United States Veterans bureau in Oklahoma City to be raised from a sub-district office to a regional bureau, but it is to have new quarters in the recently completed Elks home.

Fifteen thousand feet of floor space is required to house the many branches of the Oklahoma office and the Elks club is the most satisfactory building in the city, adjacent to the downtown district, bureau officials have found. The medical, administrative and filing sections of the bureau will be on the fifth floor of the Elks club; the laboratory and technical stores on the fourth and other supplies will be stored in the basement, according to L. W. Kibler, manager.

For many months American legion officials have complained about the present quarters of the bureau here, but bureau officials in Washington advised the legionnaires that quarters could not be obtained at once. The completion of the Elks home opened the way for the removal. The legion heads pointed out that valuable records which cannot be replaced are kept in the present building which they say is not entirely fireproof. The Elks club is just one block distant from the present bureau quarters in the Harn building.

Raising the office here to a regional status will eliminate much of the "red tape" of claim adjustments, legion executives say. The Oklahoma office will be enabled to pass upon Oklahoma cases and forward them direct to Washington without diverting them through the district office at Dallas, as has been the case.

There are 88 employees in the bureau office here, 10 of them being physicians, surgeons, dentists and diagnosticians. Two nurses are employed and several technicians. The clerical and administrative force is composed of 73 persons.

SOUTHERN HISTORY NOW AIM OF U. D. C. MEMBERS

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 21.—Renewed efforts will be made to raise an endowment fund of $10,000 from which to offer prizes to Northern universities for research work in Southern history, the United Daughters of the Confederacy decided today in adopting a committee report submitted by Mrs. Arthur Jennings of Virginia.

Mrs. Livingston Schuyler of New York who read the report of Mrs. Jennings, chairman of the committee on university prizes for Confederate essays, said the committee soon would decide whether to offer a $500 prize annually, or $1,000 biennially for the best Southern history research work by students and others in Northern universities.

DARKIE DESERTS TRUCK WHEN MOANS COME FROM BOXES

(By the Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—Washington, negro truck driver last night hastily deserted his load of long wooden boxes and telephoned police here that he heard a muffled sound coming from one of the boxes, and officers hurried to the scene and opened the box which Washington insisted contained an either dying or already dead victim of fowl play. They found it packed with "mama" dolls, and each time the truck bounced over a rut their mechanical lungs pressed by the jolt sighed "mama" in unison.

Widow of Harding Had Remained at White Oaks Farm for Months

(By the Associated Press)

MARION, O., Nov. 21.—Florence King Harding, widow of Warren G. Harding, 29th chief executive of the United States, died here today.

The end came at 8:55 a. m. at the White Oaks sanitarium of Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, where she had been fighting for life for the last several weeks. Mrs. Harding's death was due directly to a kidney ailment from which she had suffered for years and which nearly resulted fatally while she was mistress of the White House. She died peacefully, Dr. Sawyer said. The death certificate made out by Dr. Sawyer gave the cause of death as chronic nephritis with mio carditis and hydro nephrosis as contributing causes.

Clifford B. Kling, Mrs. Harding's brother, George B. Christian Jr., who had been secretary to President Harding, Mrs. Mary Sawyer, widow of Brig. Gen. Charles E. Sawyer, and Dr. Carl Sawyer were present when the end came.

Arrangements for the funeral were taken over immediately by Mrs. Harding's brother and Mr. Christian. Except for a brief interval of residence in Washington, Mrs. Harding had lived at the White Oaks farm since the death of President Harding in August, 1923. She went there primarily to be under the care of the late Brigadier General Sawyer, who had been the personal physician to her husband while he was chief executive and who had been her physician 20 years.

She became ill shortly after the death of Dr. Sawyer only this fall which it was believed brought a relapse in her condition.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The death of Mrs. Harding aroused a deep sense of personal sorrow in the national capital.

The highest dignitaries of the government, headed by President Coolidge, joined in expressions of grief and regret, but quite another tribute of affection found voice among those she had befriended in various walks of life and those who looked with admiration and pity on the tragic course of her brief tenure as mistress of the White House.

Mrs. Harding had made many warm friends in Washington long before her husband became president. As wife of a senator for several years she won a reputation as a gracious hostess and whole-hearted admiration for her participation in many public charities. These qualities she carried with her into the White House. Among those who mourn most deeply at her death are the wounded soldiers at Wallace Reed hospital where she passed many hours and left many tokens of sympathy and encouragement.

The funeral services will be held at Epworth Methodist Episcopal church at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Rev. Jess Swank, pastor of the church who conducted the funeral for President Harding, will be in charge. He will be assisted by Rev. George M. Landis, pastor of the Trinity Baptist church of which Mr. Harding was a member.

Mrs. Harding had been a member of the Methodist church since girlhood.

While no definite announcement had been made it is expected that Mrs. Harding's body will be placed temporarily in the receiving vault in the Marion cemetery along side the body of her husband.

The body was removed from the White Oaks sanitarium early today to the home of Mrs. Frank J. Longshore, a niece.

Swedes May Invade America to Play Soccer Football

(By the Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM—A visit to America by a picket team of Sweden's leading soccer players is one of the plans resulting from the almost unprecedented activity and the rising nation-wide interest in athletics now manifested in Sweden, which has gained impetus following the successes of the Swedish team during the Olympic Games.

During the past summer the Swedish soccer team won 11 out of 12 international federation matches played. In November the Swedish team will make a southern tour, and expects to meet strong opponents in Austria, Italy and other countries.

The trip to America next summer will be made, providing suitable financial arrangements can be arranged to cover the expenses of the players. The Swedes have already had the honor of meeting three different American teams on their own grounds and now hope to carry the same into the enemy's country.

WHAT THEY SAY

The many friends of Congressman Stephens, formerly of Texas, will regret to learn of his death at Monrovia, Calif., on the 18th of this month. He represented the Vernon congressional district and resided at Vernon for a number of years before retirement from the house.

John H. Stephens was an able statesman and did his duty as he understood it without fear or favor. A great many people of Texas and Oklahoma who now reside in the western part of Oklahoma, owe to him a debt of gratitude they never will be able to repay for his efforts in opening the Comanche and Kiowa Indian reservations to white settlement.

The cattle barons of west Texas had hundreds of thousands of acres of rich farm lands leased for grazing purposes at an extremely low rental and for ten years or more successfully resisted every effort of the farming class of getting these rich lands opened to white settlement, until the people of west Texas elected Stephens to congress. With the aid of the Rock Island railroad Stephens opened up these fine lands to settlement in a year or two after taking his seat in congress.

He has quite a number of old friends in Ada and this part of the state, namely Tom Hope, John Conn and H. C. Thompson, who will indeed be sorry to hear of his passing. Stephens' county, Oklahoma, was named in his honor.—By an Old Friend.

American Engineers Start to Rebuild Japanese Bridges

TOKIO.—An American company has been awarded the contract for two of the most important pieces of engineering in the Tokio reconstruction program.

The Foundation Company of New York will build the foundations for two bridges over the Sumida River which will replace those destroyed in the earthquake of 1923. These are the Etai and Kiyosu bridges. The contract amounts to about $2,000,000. It calls for the foundations to start 80 feet under water, work being done by the compressed air diving system. L. D. Craft and N. Englander, New York engineers, are in Tokio to superintend the work.

It is expected to take about three years. Japanese engineers estimate that with their methods it would require six years.

TO NAME NATIONAL COUNCIL MEMBERS

Y. M. C. A. Meeting Authorizes Members to Act at Buffalo Meeting

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Important constitutional changes affecting the 2,000 Young Men's Christian Associations of North America will shortly take place, according to information supplied today by Y. M. C. A. leaders. At meetings to be held Dec. 3-6, at Buffalo, N. Y., a National Council of 345 men will be organized. From 30 to 40 members of this council will compose an ad interim board which will succeed the International Committee as the national general agency of the association movement. These changes are in accordance with provisions of a constitution formulated at Cleveland, O., in October, 1922, and ratified this year by referendum vote of the association.

The meetings at Buffalo are expected to bring to reality improvements in organization and policy in whose planning are represented the experience and study of thousands of lay and employed officers of the various American associations. These developments are directed to the problem of how the world's largest lay movement, while maintaining decentralization, may achieve greater unity and better meet increasing responsibilities. They center mainly upon the makeup of the general legislative body, heretofore the triennial International Convention, and upon the character and functions of what are known as the general agencies. These include the present International Committee and 44 state, interstate and territorial organizations.

The International Committee, acting under the International Convention was the national agency of the movement for nearly half a century, comprises upward of 200 leading business and professional men of the United States and Canada. The new National Council will be the agent of the associations in the United States, just as the Canadian Council is purely a national body. The International Convention will continue as a means of dealing with common affairs of the movement in the two countries.

At Buffalo the new Council will determine the personnel of the general board; also the makeup of the

ANY WOMAN, any man, can now have a well-developed face and form. The whole, simple secret of a well-developed form is in the number of blood-cells in your body. You can now forget all the theoretical talk about diet, exercise, fat treatments, food-fats and fat-foods. Nothing is of any use, after all, except blood-cells!

Thin, run-down men and women, with bony necks, sunken cheeks, bony shoulders—all these are suffering from one thing—too few blood-cells. Science has proved that S.S.S. helps to make the rich red blood-cells, which you need. Your blood is starving for these new blood-cells! Give your blood the blood-cells it needs—take S.S.S. the great scientific blood-cell maker. S.S.S. has done marvels, too, in making beautiful complexions, clearing the skin, making lips rosy red, the cheeks full and plump—because it rids the blood of impurities which cause pimples, blackheads, acne, blotches, eczema, tetter, rash and rheumatism, too. As the medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable, it may be taken with perfect safety. This is why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plus in their strength. Start taking S.S.S. today and your great problem, that of your personal appearance, can be solved.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

SERVE THE LORD with gladness: come before His presence with singing. For the Lord is good: His mercy is everlasting: and His truth endureth to all generations.—Psalm 100:2, 5.

OLD BUT TRUE.

"What, after all, is success? It is not in the mere obtaining of power. Nor is it in the acquiring of vast riches. Supreme success is in being a good citizen and a good father or mother—making loved ones happy, keeping the home as our greatest institution, and bringing into life babies, then guiding them that they may better perform the tasks of this spiritual gymnasium known as life."

This bit of philosophy from the McAlester News-Capital is as true today as it was in the ancient past. It will be as true a hundred years from now as it is today.

Many human beings, believing that wealth will make them happy, fight and drive ahead, accumulating money and property. Finally when that money is accumulated and the accompanying power is in the person's hands, something happens to snatch away the joy. Either some member of the family gives trouble or death or ill health overtakes the builder.

Others believe that the applause of the public is a creator of happiness. In this vain hope, they try to get the fancy of the crowds and succeed for a time, but sooner or later the fancy of the crowds changes, and the individuals are forgotten.

Somehow, nature has provided that the greatest happiness which comes to a human being comes from doing kind deeds and making the most of one's opportunities. Some men have the gift of using wealth right and thus get happiness from it. Others have the gift of using power right and get pleasure from it. But money and power, when sought as the end instead of a means to an end, are as sounding brass.

When one treats his neighbor according to the golden rule, works hard and earnestly, tries to provide the necessities and some of the luxuries of life for his family, helps the meritorious enterprises of his community, and lives according to the tenets of the Christian religion he is not going far wrong from the road to happiness. Any other road is bounded by pitfalls and death traps.

Talking of getting through the the world on nerve reminds us of a guy in Ada several years ago. When he sold his stuff and left the mortgagee had him arrested and brought back to face a charge of disposing of mortgaged property. He was offered his freedom if he raised the money to meet the obligation during the day. He owed just about everyone in town and by fair promises of paying out in full as soon as possible he managed to get enough out of them to keep out of the pen. However, he never returned to Ada to make good on these debts and is doubtless working some other community. For nerve he was about the limit.

It is reported that a man who was a bobbin boy in a cotton factory in Massachusetts thirty years ago last year paid $84,000 income tax. He had the same opportunity that others around him had. Why did he rise? He took advantage of the opportunities that faced him. The others drifted. Are there no opportunities left in America? Are the rich getting richer and the poor poorer? If so, explain this boy's career. Explain Rockefeller, Ford, and hundreds of other captains of industry. Brains and energy are going to the top today just as they did a hundred years ago.

The situation in California where farmers and ranchmen seized Los Angeles' water supply and turned it into waste ditches is serious. If one has never been in a semi-arid country and seen the vegetation dry up, he cannot appreciate how desperate for water human beings can become. While the legal course is always the better course, one cannot help but sympathize with the farmers and cattlemen in their desire for water.

It is a poor sport who refuses to play the game of life the best he can because he thinks he is handicapped by nature which did not endow him with all the gifts he thinks he should have. A fellow should keep in mind that hard work overcomes many handicaps and is a first class substitute for brains. The hard and systematic worker generally gets ahead of his more brainy competitor in the end.

The broadcasting and receiving of radio messages and programs afford striking evidence of how much there is going on around us that one does not realize. These waves, electrical impulses, or whatever they are, are constantly sweeping through and around us but we do not realize it. Nature probably holds a good many more things that man has not yet learned about.

A hot word is like a spark falling in a powder barrel, causes a lot of trouble sometimes and damages the one who is responsible for it as much as it does the one aimed at.

OASIS OR MIRAGE?

Artists of Berlin Shun Bizarre in Annual Exhibit

BERLIN—There is a decided return to normalcy in German art, if this year's "jury-free" exhibition in the Berlin Glass Palace is any criterion. This is a free-for-all exhibition in which no jury passes in advance upon what may be exhibited or what should be excluded. Its founders propose to give every artist a chance to show the public what he has done. The exhibition, therefore offers an excellent bird's-eye view of current tendencies in German art.

What strikes one especially at this year's exhibition is the fact that among the 1728 works exhibited, there are very few of a cubist or other freakish nature. There seems to be even a return to the impressionistic school. This is especially true of landscape painting, which is for the most part as realistic as the work of Liebermann or Carot.

Younger painters, like Ernst Honigberger, or Gustav Boese, however, seem to employ sharper contrasts of color than did the earlier generation of German painters.

The preponderance of conservative canvasses does not mean, however, that there are not many attempts at art which strike the layman as bizarre. There are pictures, for instance, destined for church altars which are so ugly that one wonders how the originator ever expected to make religious propaganda with them. Similarly, several sculptors have inflicted upon the public statues of women who are fat, unproportioned, and homely.

But these are rather the exceptions. On the whole there is an attempt to get away from pronounced freakishness, and to make only such departures from old, accepted standards as the layman can follow.

As might be expected in a country which has gone through the depths of economic depression, the exhibition is lacking notably in humorous subjects. On the other hand, the essentially industrial character of modern Germany is indicated by the large number of paintings having to do with labor and industry.

HONORARY WOMEN SOCIETY NOW PLANNED AT NORMAN

NORMAN, Nov. 19.—(Special)—Installation of a chapter of "Mortar Board," national women's honorary senior society, is being planned at the University of Oklahoma, following the granting of a charter last week, according to Louise Wewerka, El Reno, president of the local group.

The petitioning body was formed by the merging of two honor groups Owl and Triangle, and Pi Alpha, the former of which has stood for high scholastic standards at the University for more than a dozen years. Scholarship, leadership and service constitute the threefold purpose of Mortar Board and in order to be eligible a student must make "A" in at least 90 hours of college work and be a leader in some school activity. Membership is necessarily limited because of the high standards.

Active members of the petitioning body are: Helen Wallace, Tulsa; Mildred Sidwell, Oklahoma City; Grace Browning, Geary; Edythe Jacobs, Tulsa; Edna Owen, Norman; Dorothy Buffington, Oklahoma City; Louise Wewerka, El Reno; Elizabeth Ball, Oklahoma City; Dorothy Thompson, Tulsa; Cleo Reed Morgan, Tahlequah; Helen Ruth Holbrook, Norman; Eula Fullerton, Norman; Annie Laurie Robey, Davidson.

Unemployed Workers in Ireland and Great Britain Show Increase

LONDON.—Nearly 11 percent of workers in Great Britain and Ireland were unemployed on September 28, according to figures published by the Ministry of Labor Gazette. The number of applicants for employment registered at the employment exchanges had grown from 1,152,000 at the end of August to 1,205,000 on September 29.

The Gazette also records another advance of four points in the cost of living on October 1, the index figures being 76 percent against 72 on September 1 and 69 on June 1. These figures indicate a percentage advance in prices over the pre-war level.

FRANCIS.

The Oklahoma Pipe Line Co. has quite a lot of their machinery in place and a large crew of men at work installing other machinery and doing other work out at their relay station.

The cold damp weather last week put all business in town and in the country on the bum. But now since the sky has got clear and warmer every thing in the way of business is on the jump.

The oil people are still at work out on 19-5-7 and the time is here for either a gusher or nothing. It is hoped by the people of Francis that it will be a gusher.

The report of the physicians is that there is some sickness in town and the country but none of it very serious.

Business on the Frisco is still rushing and everybody at the depot, roundhouse and the yards are busy as bees getting the trains out and keeping the freight moving.

Jeff Wilcoxson, street commissioner, has been working the streets and collecting the road tax last week and this, Mr. Wilcoxson says that he is going to try to put all the streets of Francis up in good condition.

The school is moving along O. K. The teachers are keeping their pupils close at the book and are trying to build up the precepts and concepts of the children.

The gin here is still getting some cotton to gin but if the open fall remains much longer they will be compelled to close down for want of cotton to gin.

The pipe line company laid off a bunch of men Saturday and Monday morning but it is hoped that they will be put back to work in the near future.

The automobiles are getting so thick one can not hardly get across the streets. There is getting to be so many cars it will necessitate a stringent law to keep people from speeding.

TULSA—Land suitable for growing apples and equal to any found in the fruit regions of Missouri and Arkansas may be found in Tulsa county, according to M. C. Hale, chairman of the agricultural committee of the Tulsa chamber of commerce. The land in this section of the state needs little fertilizer for apple production he said.

HENS BRED WISE TO WAYS OF AUTOMOBILE

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., Nov. 21.—Although the reason a chicken crosses the road never has been settled to the satisfaction of everyone, the fact that most fowls attempt to get on the other side of the highway is responsible for thousands of dollars loss to farmers in this part of the state, and many other sections.

"Automobile mortality" is one of the chief sources of loss to poultrymen, it is declared, and two protective steps are being taken. One is the removal of the chicken pens to points far distant from the road, and the other the breeding of birds that have shown, under observation a readiness to stay on their own side of the road when an automobile comes along.

Tests made with nearly 100 flocks of a certain breed revealed but a half dozen chickens which went across the road. With other breeds there were less than a half dozen of entire flocks along the road which did not try to cross. Some of the farmers are not slow to realize the difference and are turning to those breeds which "stay put" and avoid the losses.

On farms along main highways the losses to flocks from motor cars has been as high as 25 percent. In some cases a single passing automobile has killed four chickens.

Mexican Girl Has Hard Time Catching Brouge

NORMAN, Nov. 21.—(Special)—The English language, as she learned it through the study of Dickens and Shakespeare, had to be supplemented by a lot of words not found in the dictionary before Miss Melita Fuentes, Mexican student in the University of Oklahoma could understand what her fellow students were talking about.

Her father was governor of Aguascalientes, a state in the heart of Mexico, and was an accomplished linguist, yet Miss Fuentes has compiled a list of 287 words and phrases which completely baffled her when she came to the university last fall.

"Fired," "roasted," "bawled out," "spooning," and "darn" head the list, and she was mystified when a student was called a "flat tire." When she asked the definition of "humdinger," and it was explained as a "go getter," or "hot number," she was still at loss to know what it meant. She also failed to understand how one of the girls in her class "had a close shave."

In addition to carrying 17 hours of work in the University, Miss Fuentes finds time to tutor Spanish pupils and correct papers for Spanish teachers here and in Oklahoma City.

Smugglers Across Irish Line May Confront Harsh Measures.

(By the Associated Press)

LONDONDERRY, Ireland, Nov. 19.—The smuggling of dutiable goods from Londonderry into the Free State has latterly reached such alarming proportions that Free State troops have been drafted to the Donegal border in order to suppress the traffic.

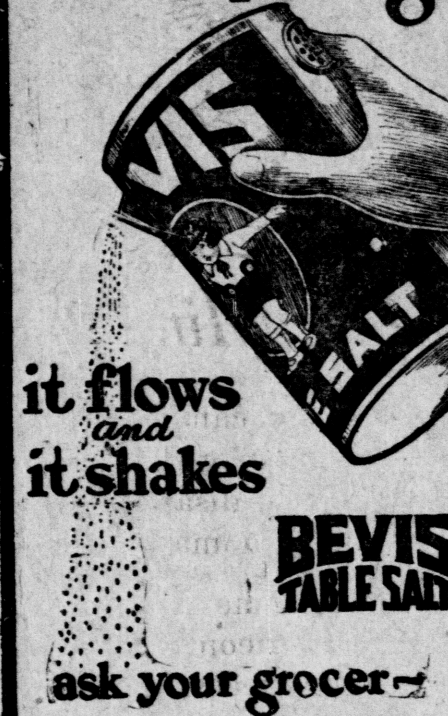

If this step does not suffice, it is proposed to close certain roads with barbed wire to prevent the passage of merchandise until it is thoroughly examined, to empty all carts, motors and trains for such examination, to forbid all traffic across the borders after five p. m., and to make a thorough search of each person crossing the line.

German Emigrants Head South

(By the Associated Press)

BUENOS AIRES.—Dr. Preusse Sperber, representing the German Emigrants Confederation, has arrived here with the purpose of investigating conditions for a further increase of German emigration to Argentina. He believes that the South American countries will be called upon to receive a great part of Germany's excess population.

FRENCH ENGINEERS SEEK TO END MOTOR GEARSHIFT

(By the Associated Press)

PARIS—The death of the gearshift in automobiles often has been announced, but the funeral has never taken place. The latest advance notice of the passing of a complicated mechanism shown first at last year's auto salon, and exhibited again in perfected form this year by one of the best makers of France.

It has been tried for two years on trucks and some test cars, but probably won't get on the market until next year. It is a series of ratchets automatically thrown into action progressively as the car gains speed so that the motor, continuing to turn at a normal speed, applies its power at what corresponds to a very low gear at the start, and at an increasingly higher gear as the speed increases, until direct drive is reached.

As there is neither differential nor gearshift the driver has only to start, let in his clutch and step on the accelerator. The amount of gas alone determines the power applied, and the speed is dependent upon the power required to move the car.

Besides simplifying a car, this mechanism is intended to obviate shock to the engine and prevent wear.

SIX AGGIES PLAY LAST HOME GAME

Lookabaugh Among List to be Lost to Spud Through Graduation

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 21.—(Special)—Six Oklahoma Aggies are certain to appear in the last home game of their collegiate foot- ball careers and two others prob- ably will be in their last when the Oklahoma A. and M. college meets Arkansas university on Lewis field here Saturday afternoon. Thanks- giving day the Aggies will play Southern Methodist university at Dallas.

The six veterans whom the or- ange and black fans will see in their farewell game at Stillwater are Guy Lookabaugh, ace of the Aggie backfield, who has been the predominating scorer this season; Capt. Vernon "Pony" Wahl, bul- wark of the line, a husky tackle who has been in the forefront of many spectacular plays; Ed Morris- son, giant guard and a sophisticated gridster; Johnny Mason, quar- terback and effective ground gainer, either through the line or at re- turning punts; Charles "Adam" Es- slinger, who has alternated with Mason at quarter in nearly every game; and Leon Bauman, utility lineman, who has played in most of the games as alternate.

The two other Maubetemen who may appear in their final effort at home are Dick Walker, whose line smashing has been second only to his goal kicking, both factors in many Aggie scores this fall, and Ralph Higgins, who has been an understudy backfield man and whose speed in offensive ways has been used in several games. He also is a substitute punter.

Other A. and M. regulars in pros- pect to play Saturday are George Connor and Douglas Mitchell, ends; Gordon Peery, halfback and stellar punter; Don Rogers, guard; Harold Weissinger, tackle; and Carter Crowe or E. M. Lookabaugh, center. Crowe has been a regular at the mid-line job but Lookabaugh has been running at the place this week and may be started against the Razorbacks.

Oil News

W. C. Hughes and others will shoot their well in section 28-4-7 soon after noon Saturday, according to present plans. The shooter is due to arrive here about noon, coming from Wilson. The hole is ready, and only an hour or so will be need- ed to place the shot and explode it. Mr. Hughes says he does not think the show will be later than 2:30 and it may be earlier.

Sixty quarts will be used in the hole. This shot, coupled with the fact that the hole is shallow and there is considerable gas, ought to make a lively show, some of those connected with the well believe.

The well is on the Ada-Allen road about seven miles from the city. The roads are in excellent condition and cars can make the trip in fifteen or twenty minutes.

Mr. Hughes believes he has a chance to get a good paying well. However, if it does not make a pay well the hole is in such shape that he can drill on down. The sand is 710 feet and produced consider- able oil without being shot.

The Pilgrim Petroleum Company in section 27-4-6 has recovered the casing in the hole and is now fish- ing for a spear. The total depth of the hole is 1652 feet.

Sunday's News will carry a com- plete summary of operations in this part of the state, including the Holdenville and other districts as well as the Ada district.

BERLIN.—Emigration from Ger- many is advancing by leaps and bounds. Within one month the num- ber of Germans hoping to find bet- ter luck elsewhere has increased from 1,872 to 4,955. The state of Wurtemberg and the Rhineland country furnished the largest quotas.

In the Rhineland industry has been hard hit by the occupation of the French, and it has proven diffi- cult to get the wheels turning properly again. Many wage earners, despairing of better days, are leav- ing for North and South American Russia and other countries in quest of happiness.

Family of Monteiro Found
Easy Money in Amazonas State

MANAOS, Brazil.—The state of Amazonas has been without a governor for some time past, and no one can be found today who desires to accept the office. The vacancy arises from revolutionary changes. The acting governor, Turiano Meira, holding office during the absence in Europe of Rego Monteiro, resigned after his recent capture by the rebels, and the vice-president of the legislative assembly and the president of the higher court, the logical candidates, both declined the honor, suggesting that the federal government undertake the job.

The lack of an executive head of Amazonas has brought out a number of stories concerning the activities of the Rego Monteiro family in the state. Public opinion is hostile to this family, it is alleged; the finances of the state are disrupted, municipal politics are vicious, there are many vacancies in the state assembly, and the judicial power is said to be controlled.

A Brazilian, formerly in the employ of the state government, says that members of the Monteiro family were in practical control of the state at the time of the revolution. It is pointed out that the chief of police in Manaus was Mario Monteiro, a son of the governor; the state secretary, a very influential position in the governor's cabinet, was Claudio Monteiro, another son of the governor; Edgard Monteiro, a third son, was the mayor of Manaus; a fourth son, Seyla Monteiro, was the assistant-official of the cabinet; while Turiano Meira, president of the assembly was acting governor, was Rego Monteiro's son-in-law.

This state employee, who worked under Monteiro, declares that the governor of the state, elected in 1908, began the practice of paying state employees 50 percent of their salaries. In order to secure this 50 percent, the employee was compelled to give a power of attorney to a representative of the state government, who went to the treasury and secured full payment, keeping one-half as a commission. This practice continued for eight successive years, during the terms of two governors. The candidate elected in 1916 stopped the practice and salaries were again paid in full. In 1920 Rego Monteiro was re-elected and the plan was resumed. During the second year of this term Monteiro raised the charge for collecting salaries to 90 percent. "It was then that my children began crying for bread," said this former clerk.

Many of the men comprising the 30 members of the legislative assembly are reported to have held their seats for several consecutive terms, some of them having remained in office for as long as 20 years.

While the revolutionists were governing the city of Manaus, the military governor requisitioned property owned by the Monteiros and compelled one of the sons to sign checks on several bank accounts. Nearly $50,000 were drawn out in cash, according to accounts published in a local newspaper, and in addition furniture, automobiles and live stock belonging to the family were sold at public auction.

obligations and become the First Lady of the Land in truth as well as name.

The full significance of that promise was known to but a few of her intimate friends. For years she had not seen a well day, and she had reached a time of life when even the plucky cheerfulness with which she covered her almost continual suffering was certain to be broken by the exactions of her position. It would have been easy to surrender to the advice of physicians and friends, and in half-retirement, to sit down amid the comforts of the White House and muse triumphantly over past years of struggle. Many women would have done it; but for her that was impossible. She declared she never would be counted a "quitter." With her new station in life, she said, went certain responsibilities, and these responsibilities she was determined not to shirk.

Nor did she interpret in any narrow sense the obligations of mutual helpfulness she had assumed when, in 1891, she became the wife of a struggling newspaper editor back in Marion. Even in those days she gave vastly more to the marriage partnership than a woman usually is able to contribute, and grown men in Marion today remember how she used to count out newspapers to them when they were newboys. When the future president entered politics, she found new and unexpected ways of helping him. As the wife of a senator, she kept in touch with hundreds in her state, who wanted help in Washington, besides maintaining her place fittingly in the social life of the capital.

Of those gathered around Mr. Harding when he entered the pre-convention campaign of 1920, there was none who kept better informed of what was done to further his candidacy than Mrs. Harding. She had opinions, and she was outspoken in expressing them to the men entrusted with management of the campaign. After the primaries in Ohio, Indiana and Michigan when the outlook for success was darkest, there were experienced politicians who advised the candidate to withdraw. But she was not one who believed in giving up, once a fight had been begun, and some of the men who know most of the inside story of those trying weeks give to her the credit for keeping Mr. Harding in the race he was eventually to win.

Stood by Her Husband. After the nomination Mrs. Harding became, in spite of the growing threat of physical collapse, an active figure in the front porch campaign. Not only did she appear always with her husband when he faced a crowd, but she remained beside him when the lines formed to shake his hand, and she gave a hand-clasp also to every one of the many thousands who filed past to acclaim his candidacy. Besides all of that, she visited his headquarters almost daily and talked political policies with his advisers, and she entertained at her table many of the distinguished visitors who came to Marion and exchanged opinions on national issues with them over the teacups.

From the time Mr. Harding became interested in politics, she made a study of things political just as she had familiarized herself previously with the Marion Star printing plant, and when the results of the 1920 elections had been written into political history, neighbors in Marion nodded their heads and related how the young editor's wife had promised her intimates on her wedding day that "some day I will make him president."

But with all her interest in public affairs, she had a true woman's love for a well-ordered home and was known to White House attendants as an unusually painstaking house keeper. While she was reviving the social calendar which had been almost forgotten during the war days and the subsequent illness of President Wilson, she was making many changes also in the organization of her household. All her efforts in that direction were bent toward making the White House a real home where the busy Chief Executive could have rest and quiet after the day's work, and where his friends could be received with the same hearty welcome that had greeted them in Marion. In order better to understand her tasks she had called just before the inauguration on Mrs. Wilson, and had discussed with her the cares and trials of the place she was entering.

For a time after she came into the White House, Mrs. Harding continued her close association with the details of her husband's work. She visited the Executive Offices, met every employee, and made more than one suggestion for facilitating the public business. But her health and her growing social duties soon called a halt, and her discontinuance of these visits was the first signal that she had been compelled to narrow the scope of her activities. The White House social program, however, was continued without abatement up to the time of her collapse and serious illness in the summer of 1922.

Active During Armament Meet.

The Armament Conference, which brought to Washington late in 1921 many distinguished men and women, imposed upon the mistress of the White House a task particularly trying. Mrs. Harding saw the advantage to be gained in the direction of good understanding by properly entertaining the visitors at the president's table. To those who inquired about her health she replied that if she were given strength to do her part during the conference she would be satisfied that her occupancy of the White House had not been in vain.

It was not long after the conference ended that she began to fail appreciably, and by late summer she lapsed into a condition from which some of her physicians believed she never could recover. That she was able to do so, they conceded, was due in large measure to her unalterable determination and confidence. For weeks she was confined to a wheel chair, and then when she began to get about and see her friends again she was taken to Florida for a long rest.

After this illness, her thoughtfulness for other who were ill appeared to increase, and from her vacation houseboat in Florida waters she ordered that thousands of Easter flowers be distributed from the White House conservatories to the Washington hospitals. Both before and after she entered the White House the wounded war veterans had been her particular care, and more than one owes to her his rehabilitation, possibly his life itself, and certainly his interest in life. She made a study of their treatment and was instrumental in founding the Veterans' Bureau and the establishment of a better system of hospital treatment.

The wounded men at Walter Reed Hospital, on the outskirts of Washington, were paid many surprise visits by their friend, laden with fruits and flowers. Weekly, huge bouquets were sent also to other nearby hospitals. During the summer of 1922 when, because of poor health she was unable to carry out the usual program of garden parties on the White House grounds she insisted on giving one at which the honored guests were the wounded soldiers from all the hospitals near Washington. More than two thousand of the crippled, blind and deaf filed past her and each received a word of greeting and encouragement. Repeatedly she left her place to guide a blind boy across a rough piece of ground or to bring plates or refreshments to those unable to leave their chairs.

Fond of Children.

She was passionately fond of children and devoted much of her time to the study of their care and protection. She was intensely interested in the country's public schools systems. When a serenade by Washington school children to the president was broken up by a terrific downpour she invited them into the East Room of the White House where they went through their program. The children crowded close to her, and she shared her seat with a proud little Miss of eight, while others sat on the floor at her feet. Mrs. Harding was born in Marion, Ohio, in 1860, of a sturdy stock of pioneers, her father Amos Kling, being one of the town's first settlers. She married Mr. Harding in 1891 when things did not look too bright for him. He had just taken over the ownership of the Marion Star, and it was loaded down with mortgages and still had to make a place for itself in the community. She never had been used to extravagance, however, and she immediately turned to the task of helping put the newspaper on a sound basis. She went to work in the business, and soon was in charge of advertising and circulation, buying the print paper and the supplies, and even standing by the presses and instructing the carriers before they started on their routes. She mothered the club established for the carrier boys, one of whom, answering to the name of Baldinger, entered the army, rose to the rank of Major and was later detailed at the White House as military aide to the president. Another was George Christian, who became the President's private secretary.

Of slight build, and medium height, Mrs. Harding carried herself strongly erect and with charming dignity. Though her hair was silvering before she came to the White House, her eyes were as bright, her manner as vivacious, and her glances and smiles as radiant as when she was a girl.

She was always well groomed, but never cared for extremes in dress. Her coiffure particularly was said to be the mystery and envy of many Washington society leaders. She had an interesting collection of lace and some rare and handsome piece usually helped to complete her gown. She did not affect jewelry and usually wore only a diamond solitaire or diamond clasp on a piece of black velvet about the throat.

In her younger days she had been an expert horsewoman and an accomplished pianist. Many musicians will always remember the interest she took in them. While in Marion she taught music, and many of the boys and girls of her home town were her pupils. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, but was very tolerant of others, and as the president was a Baptist, it was the custom of the Hardings to attend the Calvary Baptist church in Washington.

It was from her training as a horsewoman that she acquired the love for animals which became more and more marked in later years. In the White House "Laddie Boy," the president's Airedale, was her constant companion. More than once she stopped on the street to reprimand drivers who were punishing their horses. At least one horse, Old Clover, who lived in Pennsylvania, would have been willing to attest to her compassion. Hearing that Clover, who was 51 years old, was about to be killed because his master was unable to provide for him in his days of useless old age, she sent the owner a $100 check to assist in keeping him in comfort to the end of his days.

Mrs. Harding was active in philanthropic circles. She devoted much of her time to girls' work and was the national head of the Girl Scouts organization.

COST OF LESSONS
HAMPER STUDENTS

High Fees for Instruction in U. S. Hamper Music Students

(By the Associated Press)

FRANKFORT—Native musicians will never have a fair opportunity in the United States until the cost of musical education is reduced in America, according to Simon Bucharoff, the Chicago composer who is in Germany arranging for the production of his new grand opera, "Sakakra."

"We should have government and city support for music schools and opera houses in the United States," said Mr. Bucharoff, "and I believe such public spirited citizens as General Dawes will eventually bring about the establishment of schools of that character, where poor, but talented, young Americans may get thorough musical education at small cost. A school such as the Berlin Musical High school, would be a boon to hundreds of young Americans who are struggling to become artists."

"In the Berlin school German pupils have tuition for about $50 a year, and foreigners pay about twice that amount. Only youngsters who are well grounded in music are taken, and the course in the school is ordinarily three years. Most of the pupils have had at least five years of training before they enter the Berlin school."

"Think of the difference in cost for students in Germany and America. Skilled teachers in the United States charge advanced pupils $10, $20 or even $50 a lesson. When one considers that most really gifted pupils in the United States cannot afford to pay even $2 a lesson and are often earning all their educational funds it is little wonder that American students become discouraged. We can educate our American singers and musicians in the United States better than it can be done here, and by so doing we can lay the foundations for a real American type of music and divorce ourselves from European standards."

"We can get all the European teachers we need in America and create schools just as good as the government maintains in Germany or any other European country."

LONDON—Swiss hotel waiters, called upon to deal each year with an increasing number of English-speaking tourists, will in the future have an opportunity for a thorough training under famous English masters of the profession, while English waiters may have a similar training in Switzerland, under an exchange agreement just made public by the ministry of labor.

Two hundred Swiss waiters will be sent to certain approved London and English resort hotels with the definite idea of learning the English language and methods, and a similar number of English waiters will be sent to Switzerland. It is possible that all classes of hotel servants, including cooks and chambermaids, will be included in this year's quota.

LONDON—Swiss hotel waiters, called upon to deal each year with an increasing number of English-speaking tourists, will in the future have an opportunity for a thorough training under famous English masters of the profession, while English waiters may have a similar training in Switzerland, under an exchange agreement just made public by the ministry of labor.

OLD ENGLAND TO BE SUBJECT STUDY

Chicago University Plans to Study Chronicles of Old England

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—New light on social, economic and industrial conditions in England, during a period of over five centuries, is expected to be obtained when careful study is made of nearly 2,000 documents, once the property of the famous Bacon family. The collection, which has been in England, has been purchased for the University of Chicago by Martin A. Ryerson of this city.

In the middle of the sixteenth century Sir Nicholas Bacon, afterwards Lord Keeper of the Great Seal under Queen Elizabeth, acquired a large estate surrounding the hunting lodge of the Abbot of Bury St. Edmunds, which had been in the possession of the monastery since the dissolution of the monasteries. He received the deeds, charters, manor rolls and other documents connected with the property. His eldest son, Nicholas, who was a half-brother of Lord Francis Bacon, acquired by marriage additional landed property and the documents relating to it. The collection was further increased until the end of the seventeenth century, when the properties passed into the hands of Sir Thomas Holt, father of Lord Chief Justice Holt.

Few of the libraries of England possess a collection of equal extent and continuity. It is said at the University. There are more than 1,050 deeds, of which 400 are on vellum. There also are 741 court and computus rolls of 19 manors in Norfolk and Suffolk, from the thirteenth to the sixteenth centuries, and also 143 family letters of the Bacon family. Among historical personages who either signed or both wrote and signed some of these letters are Sir Edward Coke, the great lawyer; Lord Chief Justice Holt, Francis Russell, Thomas Sackville, and Sir Francis Walsingham, secretary of state to Queen Elizabeth. There is a letter of the privy council dated at Windsor, Sept. 17, 1604, and signed by Lords Lennox, Suffolk, Northumberland, Cranborne, Balmerino, Stanhope and Sir William Knolles. It is addressed to Sir Nicholas Bacon as high sheriff of Suffolk.

In 1914 the chewing gum industry in the United States represented a capital investment of $10,000,000.

RESTAURANT MAN DIDN'T EAT HIS OWN FOOD

"It's pretty tough for a restaurant man to have stomach trouble. My customers were always telling me I ought to eat in a good restaurant. The fact was I couldn't eat a thing that didn't bloat me up and no medicine or doctors helped me. I tried everything recommended and at last May's Wonderful Remedy, and I assure you I didn't have to look and further. Since taking it I have been a well man." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

COMPOSITE LANGUAGE IS EXTOLLED AS PERFECT

(By the Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Nov. 21.—A new universal language, Ido, which he terms "the most perfect language in existence," is being advocated by the Rev. F. L. Odenbach, seismograph observer of John Carroll University here.

Speaking recently of Ido, Father Odenbach said: "The telephone and radio have brought the people of this earth within speaking distance, but the scenes enacted are suggestive of what must have happened at the Tower of Babel. The remedy, however, is in Ido, a language which may be learned at home in a few months. The salient features of this new and perfect vehicle of thought follow: The alphabet is the English one, with a single sound for each letter; the spelling is absolutely phonetic; every word has but one invariable meaning.

"The accent is governed by a single rule: The infinitive form has the accent on the last syllable; all other words of more than one syllable on the last but one.

"There are but 20 grammatical endings to be learned by heart. All nouns end in 'O,' all adjectives in 'A,' and all adverbs in 'E, the rest are used for the conjugation of the verb.

"A dictionary of 10,000 roots, with about 75 suffixes, forms the material of this auxiliary language. The Ido dictionary thus puts at our disposal some 30,000 words, twice as many as Shakespeare used.

"Since the roots were all chosen from the living cultural languages, Americans and the English will recognize 79 percent of the words at first sight; the Germans 61 percent, the French 51 percent and Spaniards 79 percent. There are no exceptions in its grammar."

Virginia Lady Says That Many of Her Long-Suffered Ills Have Fled Since She Took Cardui.

Bristol, Va.—"I can sleep good at night now, something I have never done before in my life," says Mrs. Deala Hawks, of 712 Prospect St., this city, "and it is due to Cardui."

"I was always nervous and tossed when I should have been asleep, but since I took Cardui it has strengthened me, and my general health is so improved that many of the ills from which I have suffered for years have fled."

"I used to go to bed tired and, when I would get up in the morning, I was still tired. Now I feel like doing a day's work in my garden or in the house, and I owe all this good health to Cardui, for I had suffered for years until I took it."

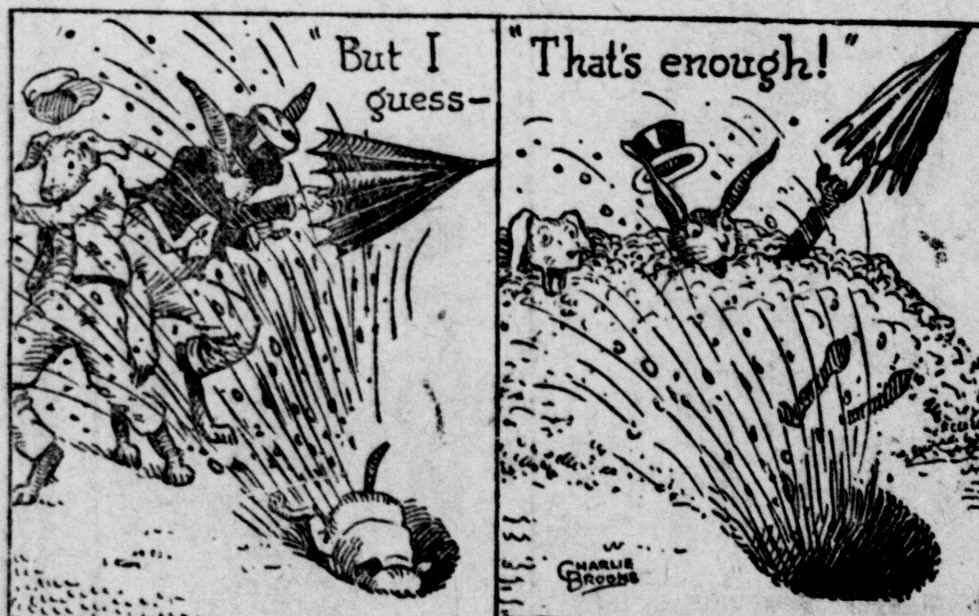

"If you are nervous and run-down in health, suffering as Mrs. Hawks describes above, it is probable that Cardui will greatly help you. Try it."

Farm Column

Another Cotton Test

P. A. Norris tried two or three experiments at one time this year with a cotton crop on his farm on the outer edge of the city along the Allen graded highway.

This land was used as a feed pasture for a bunch of cattle in 1922 and this year he fertilized it with 200 pounds of acid phosphate to the acre.

He planted eight and one-half acres in Mebane and the same amount in Lone Star. The Mebane yielded 3,633 pounds of lint or 427 pounds per acre, just a shade under a bale. The Lone Star yielded 3,146 pounds, or 367.4 pounds per acre. They linted about the same—38 percent. In other words, 1,300 pounds of seed cotton would make a 500-pound bale.

Mr. Norris also carried on a spacing test taking strips of two rows each through the field. Where it was not thinned at all it averaged 185 pounds to the row. Where it was thinned to 6 inches the yield was 178 pounds. The 10-inch thinned rows made 233 pounds, 14-inch, 223 pounds, 18-inch, 181 pounds, 24-inch, 190 pounds and 30-inch 175 pounds.

It will be observed that the rows thinned to 10 inches gave the largest yield.

KAFIR AS A FEED.

Kafir corn must be ground to obtain its full feeding value. Coarsely ground kafir corn contains 5.97 per cent digestible protein and fat. Analyses of kafir corn shows that it contains a total of 11.2 per cent protein and 3.1 per cent fat; Indian corn contains a total of 10.4 per cent protein and 5.0 per cent fat.

Ground kafir corn heads are entirely satisfactory for all classes of cattle but the ration should always be balanced with alfalfa, cowpeas, peanut hay, or cotton seed meal.

For HORSES, kafir corn heads may entirely take the place of corn. The ration is improved by the addition of a limited amount of bran, shorts or cotton seed meal.

As a feed for CALVES kafir corn meal fed dry has been shown to be well suited to feed with skim milk.

For fattening STEERS, ground kafir corn may entirely take the place of Indian corn. Excellent results have been obtained when ground kafir corn was fed with enough alfalfa hay or cotton seed meal to balance the ration.

Fed to DAIRY COWS, kafir should always be ground and something else fed to balance the ration.

Growing PIGS should be fed alfalfa, cow pea, or peanut hay, or shorts in addition to kafir heads.

For fattening HOGS should be fed alfalfa, cowpea, or peanut hay, or shorts in addition to kafir heads. No single grain is superior to kafir corn as a poultry feed. Kafir corn as a poultry feed does not tend to fatten hens rapidly as corn does and consequently as a better egg producer.

Silage is a feed of established merit for livestock and is palatable, cheap and succulent, particularly valuable for breeding stock.

As regards ensilage, points in kafir corn's favor are; it is practically certain to produce a crop of grain and forage, while corn may not do so; the plant remains green long after the grain is mature, thus giving a longer time during which the silo may be filled; the corn plant dies quickly after the grain is formed; kafir corn is more conveniently handled by corn binders and ensilage cutters.

A farmer agronomist of the Oklahoma A. & M. College has said, "Many feeding tests with grain sorghums have been run with different classes of animals. These grains have proven entirely suitable for hogs, cattle, horses, chickens and sheep. The quality of meat produced from animals fed on the grain sorghums is good. While kafir corn has a somewhat lower feeding value than corn, still its greater yield per acre makes it a more profitable crop."

Grain sorghums are not substituted for corn, they are the "real thing."—Oklahoma Leads.

RUSSIAN FAMILIES SPLIT OVER CHILDREN RELIGION

MOSCOW—The question of the religious education of children is one of the great problems of the Russian people. Frequently it is the cause of dissension between father and mother, leading to divorce and separation. In many cases the state has been called upon to settle disputes arising out of this question. A unique case recently came before a Moscow judge. A wife complained that her husband had objected to the Christianizing of their children, for which reason she left him.

She demanded from her husband sufficient money to rear and educate the children, which the husband refused to pay, arguing that his wife intended to give religious instruction to the children. The father then took the case into court and asked the judge to place the children in a children's home in order to save them from the influence of their mother. The judge, who was a Communist, evaded both points, but ordered that the children be returned to the father without any payment to the mother.

MOSLEM HOLY CITY IS WITHIN GRASP OF NEJD'S SULTAN

The Moslem world is disturbed by the news that Sultan Ibn Saud (above), ruler of Nejd, is in a position to capture the holy city of Mecca because of his victory over King Hussein of Hedjaz in Islamic warfare in Arabia.

OIL IS MENTIONED AS ITALY'S ENVOY GIVES UP U. S. POST

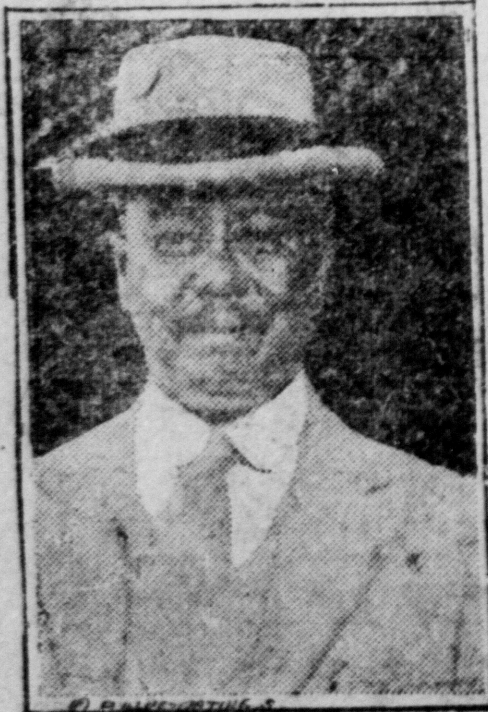

The announcement that Prince Gelavio Cactani (above) soon will retire as Italian ambassador to the U. S. is being connected in Rome with the mistake he made in backing Harry Sinclair to get control of a large part of Italy's oil fields. A flood of criticism was directed at the Sinclair options when the Teapot scandal broke.

DURANT PROFITS MILLIONS IN NEW MARKET COMEBACK

The most talked of man in Wall Street is W. C. Durant, whose fortune was almost wiped out in 1920 by speculations in General Motors. In 1921-22 he won back $4,000,000 in deals in Studebaker. Now he is $2,000,000 richer as a result of deals in United States Cast Iron Pipe.

HE MAY BE NAMED JAP ENVOY TO U. S.

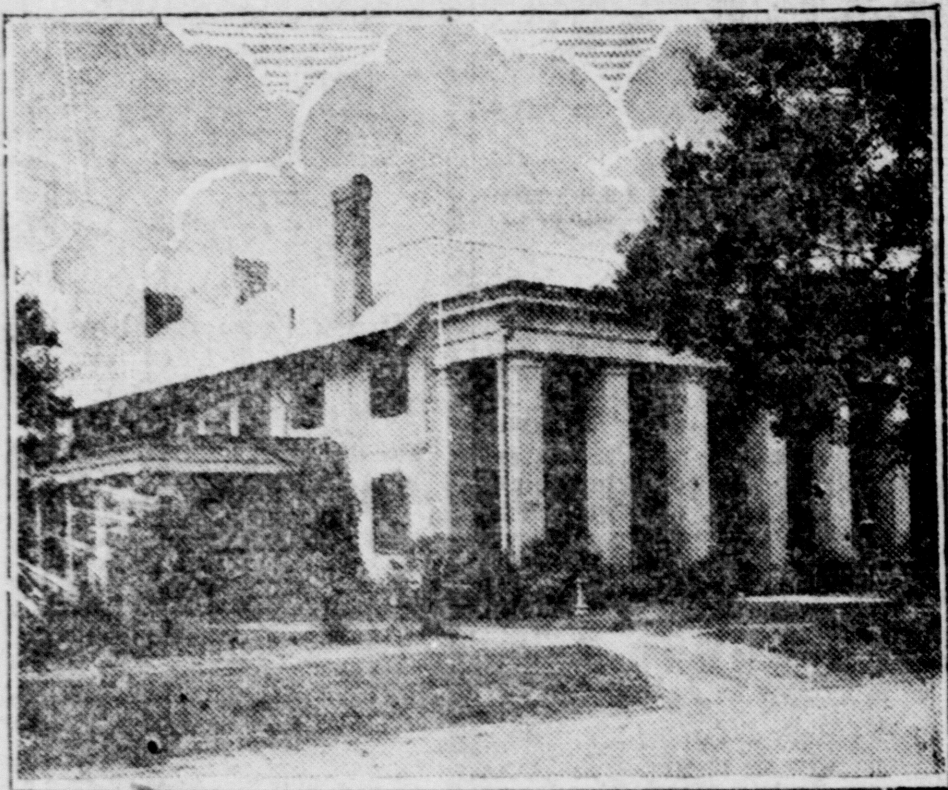

It is being said in Tokyo that Eki Hioki, former minister to Peking, and to Berlin, will be the next ambassador from Japan to the United States.

Result of Davis-Shaver Confab May Be New Democratic Strategy

A new Democratic strategy in the closing months of the presidential campaign may be the result of a conference held in Washington by John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential candidate, and Clem L. Shaver, national manager of the campaign. It was Davis' first visit to Washington since his nomination. Davis and Shaver are shown as they went over the situation.

Building, Once Jackson Headquarters, Increases 10,000 Per Cent in Value

The price of building is going up, as you may have suspected. This house, at Demopolis, Ala., the first brick building constructed in Alabama, put up in 1812, cost $450. It is still in good condition, and is valued now at $45,000. It was used by General Andrew Jackson in 1812-13 as his headquarters in part of his campaign against the Creek Indians.

Much Baseball Has Been Written Since Griffith Started Career

The man who has given Washington its biggest baseball year, Clark Griffith, started his baseball career as a pitcher with the Bloomington, Ill., team. He was then 18 years of age. The pitching photo (above) of him was taken about that time. Inset shows him today. His work at Bloomington drew attention and Milwaukee bought him. The Chicago White Sox then grabbed him and Griffith pitched and managed that club to two pennants. Then he joined the Comiskey-Johnson forces organizing the American league and went to New York in 1903 to manage the first American league club started there.

THIS COAT FROCK KEEPS ITS WEARER A STEP AHEAD OF FASHION

JUST a step ahead of fashion one may walk with this frock, which illustrates several ideas so new that this costume may be taken as a future prediction as well as a most charming present reality.

There is more than a suggestion of the mode Directoire in this model with its quaint postillion-like cape collars, made in black velvet and worn with a separate blouse, either of black silk or a contrasting color. The skirt is cut in one piece with the long straight back which buttons on to the shoulders of the blouse, as shown in the upper small sketch. It "unwraps" gradually when the belt is unfastened, thus giving itself the right to come under the heading of coat frock, although it is hard to realize that this sophisticated costume has any relation to the simple models we have been accustomed to group under this term.

To return to the composition of the ensemble, the top collar is adjustable, and can be put on or taken off at will, according to whether Madame is in the house or on the street, or wishes to vary her costume.

The tucked blouse is worthy of a paragraph to itself. It reverses the usual order, and leaves its chemise front plain, while it tucks the rest of itself. The long tight sleeves, with their flared cuffs give the required touch of picturesqueness to match with the dashing collar.

This costume could of course be copied in silk instead of velvet, if desired. One of the new ribbed silks, like Cote Centaur would be appropriate.
